Description

This 19th-century Belgian blue stone finial is a striking architectural accent distinguished by its classical urn form and beautifully weathered surface. Hand-carved from dense Belgian bluestone, it features a domed top, rounded body, sculptural pedestal, and substantial square base, all softened by generations of natural patina. Its timeworn texture and softly mottled coloration give the piece an authentic Old World presence, making it an exceptional decorative object for a garden, entryway, mantel, or interior display.
